NEW YORK, NY – Information Management Network (IMN) is pleased to announce a resurgence of interest in the fourth annual European CMBS Conference. The increase in sponsorship, speakers, and delegate numbers indicate that this market may not be dead yet.

“Although the volatility in the markets continues to make primary CMBS issuance difficult, and investors remain cautious, many of the players in the CMBS market have a strong interest in engaging in a dialogue to resolve the problems which beset the industry. The forum provided by the IMN European CMBS conference will attract issuers, investors, servicers and other participants, since it represents a good opportunity to work towards the solutions which will allow the market to reopen,” says Peter Voisey, Partner at Clifford Chance LLP. In addition to new sponsors such as Barclays Capital, Credit Suisse, Citi, and ABN AMRO/RBS Greenwich Capital, over 200 investors and issuers have signed on for an active dialogue between the most active players in the CMBS market.

The speaker faculty of industry experts has also grown over the last two weeks. Steve Swallow, Head of European ABS at CQS; Stephen Ashworth, Fund Manager and Partner at Reech Capital PLC; Dr. Kurt Becker, Head of Economic and Credit Research at Collineo Asset Management GMBH; and Michael Jung, Chief Executive Officer of Vivacon AG have signed on to help make sense of this turbulent market.
